

Holidays

The sessional dates are published for each class, clearly indicating the holiday schedule. A student is given one week summer holiday in their first year and two weeks summer holiday during their second year. In addition, students receive two weeks over the Christmas/New Year holiday period in all three years.

In Preclerkship there will be no academic sessions scheduled when the University is officially closed.

In Clerkship, students may be required to participate in academic sessions/clinical duties on statutory holidays. If there is an orientation or academic session scheduled on a day which has been designated a hospital holiday, clerks are expected to attend. If there are no such session scheduled, then the clerks should check with their preceptor and/or chief resident in regards to determining whether or not their attendance is required in the clinical setting on a statutory holiday.
